

Beauty

amid pain

PRESIDENT'S LETTER

Dear friend of World Vision,

When you look at the world today, what do you see?

One perspective might be “things are worse than ever.” A world continuing to grapple with the ongoing impacts of the pandemic is also contending with rising costs, entrenched conflict, and increasingly extreme weather events. And together, these challenges are causing global hunger to soar.

I see this pain. In my travels last year, I witnessed firsthand the plight of Ukrainian refugees. In Kenya, I gazed into the faces of hungry children and sat with mothers who couldn't produce milk for their babies.

Yet I also saw beauty—yes, beauty amid the pain. It was revealed when ordinary people stepped into the suffering of others. At the Ukraine border, I watched as an old man staggered off a bus filled with refugees, sobbing. A volunteer rushed over and pulled the man into a tight embrace. After a few minutes, the old man, comforted, was able to continue on his journey. It was a beautiful moment I'll never forget.

In drought-ravaged Kenya, I met a mother of six who received a food ration from a World Vision distribution that would feed her family for only a few weeks. And yet, when she arrived home to find hungry neighbors waiting, she didn't hesitate to share with them from what little she had. Her generosity left me speechless.

Faced with the realities in the world today, it can be tempting to turn away—to draw inward. But I believe that when we choose instead to step into the pain of others, we draw closer to God and glimpse the striking beauty of His presence.

In 2022, our supporters and partners boldly moved toward the world's suffering. Thanks to their generosity and the Lord's faithfulness, this was our third consecutive year of record donations. And that enabled us to reach more of the children and families who needed it most.

The impact of these donations, which is highlighted on pages 11–12, is beautiful to behold.

Thanks to our donors and partners, World Vision continues to draw close to the world's pain. Our dedicated staff are serving those impacted by hunger in 26 of the hardest-hit countries. They're assisting refugees from Ukraine, Syria, Myanmar, Venezuela, South Sudan, and the Democratic Republic of the Congo. And they're working to improve resilience in communities vulnerable to increasingly destructive natural disasters.

It's true that the world's trouble and turbulence are on full display. But we trust in Jesus' promise in John 16:33 (NIV): “In this world you will have trouble. But take heart! I have overcome the world.” This is the hope we have—and the hope we can share with those who need it most.

In 2023, we'll continue to follow God's call to step into the world's pain and look for the beauty of His presence there. As we do, we reflect the hope that lives within us ... the hope that overcomes all ... and the hope that has a beautiful name: Jesus Christ!

God bless you!

SPOTLIGHT: UKRAINE CONFLICT

Thanks to our existing presence in the Eastern European region, World Vision was positioned to respond almost immediately to the devastating effects of the war that began in Ukraine in February 2022. When the conflict escalated, our local staff were there for refugees fleeing across the Romanian border—offering food and shelter, cash assistance, protection against trafficking, and more.

Over the following months, we actively supported families displaced in Romania, Moldova, Georgia, and Ukraine, as well as the host communities who welcomed them. As a Christian organization, we've engaged churches and other partners—in Ukraine, the surrounding region, and around the world—in this work. The need continues to be great as the conflict persists. But with the help of partner organizations and our donors—who showed incredible generosity toward those impacted by the crisis—we've been able to respond to both the immediate and long-term needs of affected children and families. By the end of September 2022, we had reached 360,718 people in Ukraine, Romania, Moldova, and Georgia, of whom 131,974 were children. This included:

- 229,428 people reached with food assistance
- 57,796 people reached with hygiene kits
- 32,707 people reached with cash and vouchers
- 25,597 people reached with temporary shelter assistance
- 11,817 children reached with education programming

In 2022, the malnutrition rate in the region rose as livestock died in an ongoing drought and food costs skyrocketed.

SPOTLIGHT: GLOBAL HUNGER CRISIS

Regional conflicts, the pandemic, extreme weather events, and sharply rising costs combined in 2022 to inflict dire levels of global hunger, reflected in the World Food Programme’s red alert: 45 million people in 37 countries facing the threat of starvation. World Vision’s staff and our dedicated donors responded by moving toward the world’s pain—energized by our faith in a God who comes alongside all who suffer.

In 2022, we launched our largest humanitarian undertaking ever in response to the global hunger crisis, aiming to reach 22 million people with emergency assistance in 25* of the hardest-hit countries. By the end of our fiscal year in September, our supporters and partners had enabled us to reach more than 15.5 million people, including nearly 8.5 million children.^{}

Join us in celebrating the impact we’ve made together:

- 6.3 million people reached with in-kind food assistance
- 787,084 people reached with primary healthcare support
- 356,554 children reached through management of severe acute and moderate acute malnutrition
- 32,388 households provided with farming assets to support livelihoods
- 1.6 million people reached with access to clean water

^{*}The number of countries included in this response has since increased to 26.
^{}Includes people supported in the 25 countries of highest alert between March 1, 2021 and September 30, 2022.

In Turkana, Kenya, Pauline’s family has survived hunger through cash transfers, World Vision training programs, and support from child sponsorship. “Thank God and thank the donors.... This enabled us to stay with so little,” Pauline says. “Without the cash transfer, some of us could have died.”

In Afghanistan, 7-month-old Safia was treated at a World Vision mobile health clinic for severe malnutrition. After four visits, her health and spirits had improved noticeably. “After this team of doctors came here, the mortality rate of malnourished children—as well as maternal and infant mortality rate—have decreased in our village considerably,” says Abdulrahman, head of Ziaudul village.

In India, Babli, 27, and her daughter, Divyanshy, 6, feed one of their goats. Through World Vision's livelihood program for people with disabilities, Babli and her husband, Deshraj, 28—both of whom were impacted by polio—received two goats in September 2021, along with training on goat farming. By September 2022, they had sold four goats for a profit of $376—close to their annual income—and had four more goats to keep. “The gift of goats has changed our lives by increasing our income. We invested the money on food, education, and providing for the need[s] of the children,” Deshraj says.

A game-changing year for girls

In Kenya, young girls graduate from World Vision's Alternative Rites of Passage program. This training workshop equips boys and girls and their communities to celebrate their culture without participating in harmful traditions like female genital mutilation.

In Bangladesh, Bristi, 16 (front, at left), practices karate during a World Vision Child Forum. Her confidence grew along with her physical strength last year as she participated in child protection awareness activities through World Vision and resisted the cultural pressure to marry early. "I am proud of being a girl," she says. "While learning this karate, I realized how valuable our lives are.... it is up to you to make your life beautiful."

Bold faith—bright future

Nicolasa, a single mother of two in Guatemala, has built a thriving pig-farming business through a World Vision economic development project. “We did not imagine we would have so much support from World Vision, but thank God, as you can see, this is the product,” she says, referring to her pigs as well as the new house built with her earnings. Her eldest, 9-year-old Johana (shown, at right), is a budding entrepreneur too. “When I grow up, I want to be like my mommy,” she says proudly.

A devastating 7.2 magnitude earthquake shook Haiti in 2021. In 2022, World Vision built and restored three schools as part of the recovery response. Louisina, 9, Sophie, 13, and Jilienne, 11 (pictured from left to right), celebrated the grand opening of their new school. “We are so happy to see our school rebuilt,” one of the girls shared.

Serving families in the U.S.

In 2022, World Vision supported 3.6 million children and adults through our work here at home, including over 80,000 people reached through disaster response.

When a tornado struck David and Annmarie’s home in Kentucky, it tore away part of their garage and ripped off the siding and roof. “We had to get out before everything collapsed,” recalls Annmarie. But through World Vision’s disaster response work in partnership with a local church, the couple have seen their house repaired and restored beyond what they’d dared to imagine. “We want to thank you guys for making this happen for us,” says David.

THE POWER OF PARTNERSHIPS

Our work is made possible by the many partners who join us in equipping kids and families to create lasting change for themselves. Here's to building a better future—together.

After a tornado destroyed homes in Bowling Green, Kentucky, brothers James (left) and Jef (right), who work in home construction, collaborated with Pastor Joel Hawkins (center) of Crossland Community Church—a World Vision partner—to help their neighbors rebuild. World Vision works with local churches like Crossland to provide building materials and other supplies for families impacted by emergencies.

In July, with the encouragement of thousands of emails from World Vision Advocates, the Senate passed a bipartisan resolution condemning the use of hunger as a weapon of war and recognizing the effect of conflict on global food security and famine.

At the World Vision Global 6K for Water® on May 21, 2022, members of the Apostolic Faith Church team sport their World Vision swag (with creative additions). The Chicago church was among the 558 sites—in every U.S. state and around the world—that hosted the Global 6K in 2022.

At Elizabeth Baptist Church in Atlanta, Georgia, Bishop Craig Oliver and his family sign up for the opportunity to be chosen as sponsors by a child. “We’re absolutely excited,” says Dr. Oliver, who serves as senior pastor. “We’re looking forward to this being a defining moment in the life of our church as it helps give life to our vision, which is to showcase the breakthrough love of God.”

Joseph, 10, holds the photo of the Honduran child who chose him as a sponsor. “It makes me happy that they picked me ... and that they have the opportunity to have a friend here,” he says.

THE EVERY LAST ONE® CAMPAIGN

An unprecedented call to empower 60 million people with life, hope, and a future—in the name of Jesus Christ.

By the grace of God and the generosity and compassion of our donors and partners, we reached nearly 14 million people in fiscal year 2022 with:

LIFE ... through clean water and mother and child health

HOPE ... through Christian discipleship, child protection, and emergency response

FUTURE ... through education and economic empowerment

Please pray for God's continued favor as we forge ahead in our commitment to bring life, hope, and a future to every last one.

LIFE

Since the campaign began in October 2015 ...

25,545,152 people have been reached with clean water, and 1,684,358 women and children have gained access to better healthcare.

HOPE

10,181,111 people have been reached through our Christian discipleship programs, 5,317,628 through our child protection programs, and 16,085,773 through our emergency response efforts.

FUTURE

1,135,901 people have been reached through our education programs, and 5,873,199 have been reached through our economic empowerment work.

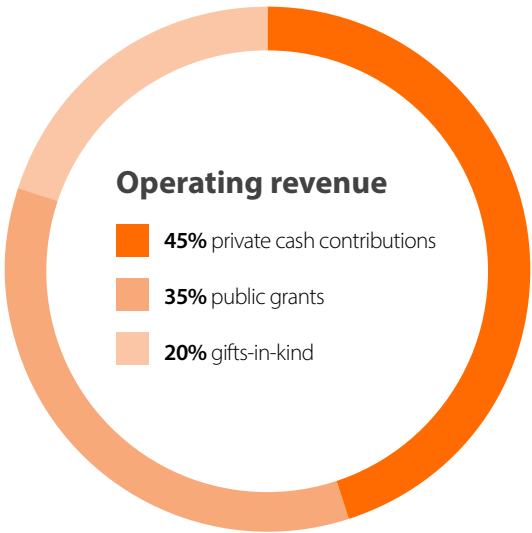

Gabriel, 3, swings at a park near the church his dad pastors in a gang-plagued city in Honduras. Equipped by World Vision, the church provides service, care, and opportunities to families in need and teens at risk of gang recruitment. Through resources like parenting classes, the Youth Ready job training and support program, and assistance for those left homeless by disaster, local families are finding not only material assistance but also God's hope for their future.

In Honduras, Tulio Alexis Gonzalez, 68, his son Juan Carlos, 40, and Juan's son, Carlos Joseph Gonzalez, 12, display the beautiful sweet potatoes their family grew after completing World Vision's THRIVE program, which provides operational and business training for farmers. Before the program, the family had been selling sweet potatoes to grocery stores, but through THRIVE trainings, they learned how to value their crops and negotiate better contracts. Now the family has doubled their monthly income and secured a lucrative contract with Walmart. "This is what we needed," said Tulio when we caught up with him in February. "Usually people ask for money but they don't ask for training. We needed money, but we needed the training to get to do things better. With these trainings, it helped our self-esteem to get to know our value."
